Technical Specifications

Continuous Duty Electrical Rating: 250V/15A/50Hz/3000W Dimensions: H 120mm x W 420mm x L 118mm

Maximum Energy Dissipation: 2190J
 L-N: 300 Joules • L-E: 540 Joules •
 N-E: 250 Joules • Telephone Line: 320 Joules
 Joule is a measurement of energy a surge protector component can absorb. A higher joule rating reflects higher quality surge protector and longer product life.

Response time: 1 nanosecond
 A rating of 1 nanosecond is a billionth of a second instantly responds to prevent disturbances before harmful equipment.

EMC and RFI Emissions:
 150kHz-100MHz up to 70 dB Reduction

Maximum spike current: 49,500 Amps
 L-N: 30,000A • L-E: 150,000A • N-E: 75,000A
 Maximum spike current is measured by amplitude, higher ampere ratings reflect greater absorption capacity against lightning or sudden dramatic power spikes.

Electromagnetic interference/radio frequency interference caused AC line combination that leads to computer lockups, audio/video interference and data loss. The greater the decibel reduction across a wider frequency range, the greater the clean protection.
